Main floor

Arrive through the front foyer. The living room, rear dining area and kitchen share the garden side of the house.

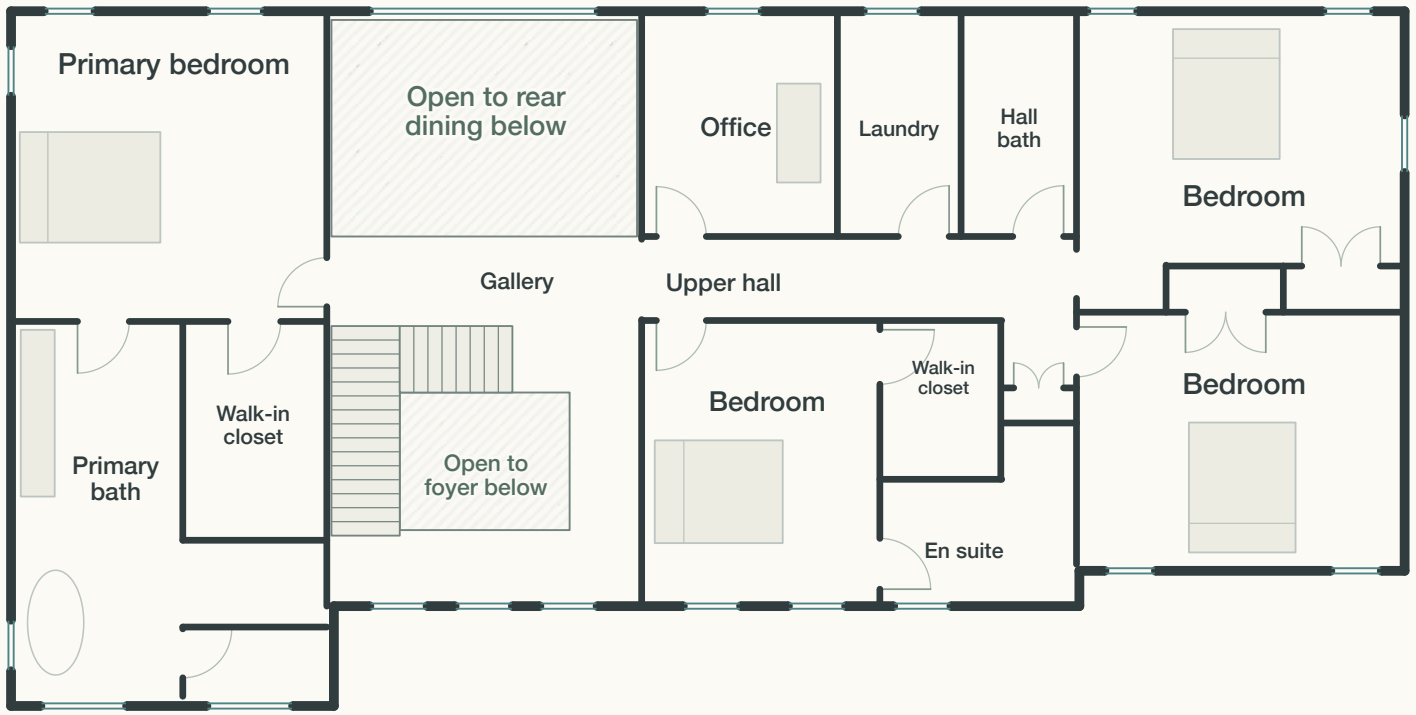

The guest bedroom and bath are on this level. Each of the two garage spaces has its own overhead door.

Upper floor

Four bedrooms share the upper floor with an office and a second laundry.

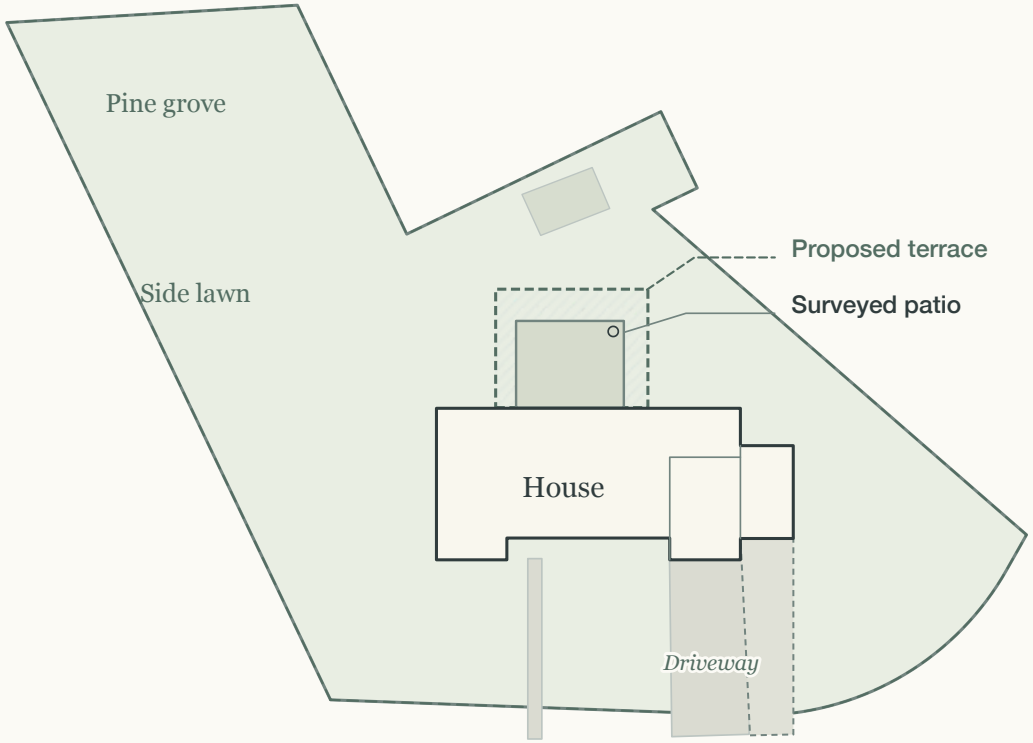

Garden side

The upper gallery overlooks rear dining. A separate opening brings light down into the front foyer.

House and grounds

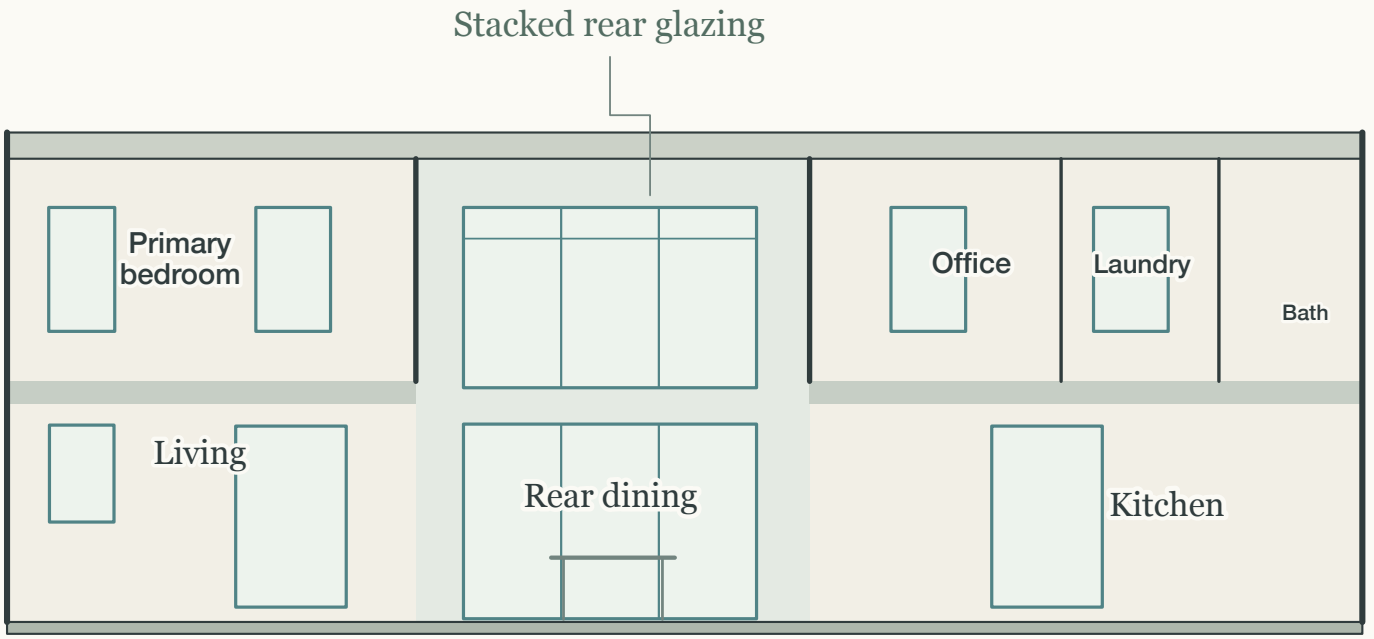

The survey places the patio just beyond the rear dining doors. The dashed outline shows the proposed larger terrace.

The proposed exterior palette is Salt & Slate. Parking includes two garage spaces and six outdoor spaces.

The two-story dining room

The rear dining room rises through two levels, with sliding doors below a bank of fixed windows.

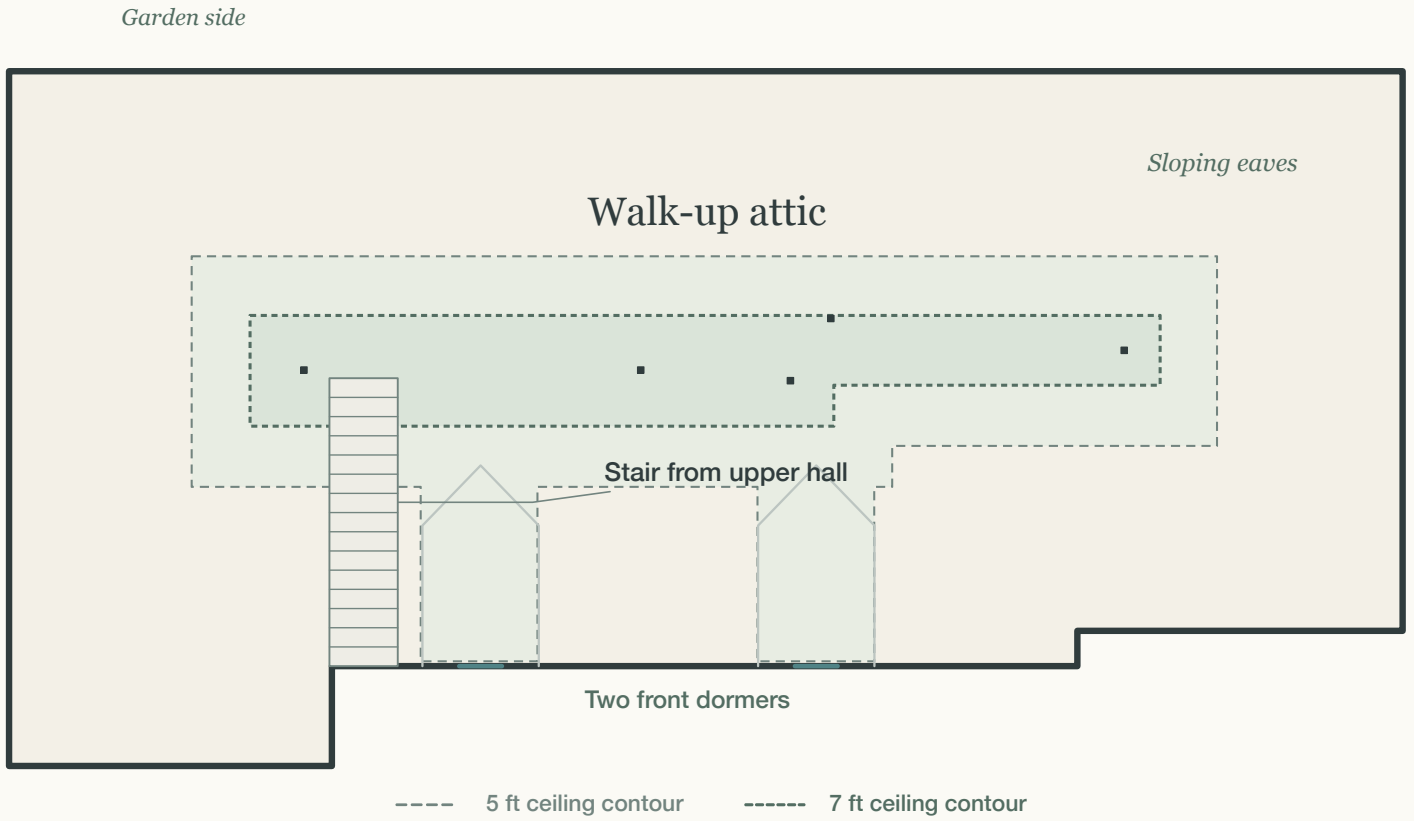

Looking toward the garden

The living room and kitchen have upper-floor rooms above them. This interior section illustrates their relationship to the taller dining space.

Walk-up attic

A stair from the upper hall reaches the attic, where the roof slopes toward its perimeter.

The two front dormers and approximate ceiling-height contours follow the stamped roof design.
